Desultory Tone to Stock Speculation Fails to Halt Upward Trend of Prices

INACTIVE STOCKS

Heavy Gains Recorded in Delaware and Hudson and Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroads.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 .- The stock mar ket this morning exhibited a strong tone, although there was no particular animation in the speculation. The improvement, as a rule, was not extensive, but there were gains of 1/2 to 7/8 per cent in St. Paul, Erie second preferred, Penn-sylvania, Norfolk and Western, Illinois

Central, and Missouri Pacific.

There was an exceptional advance of 1¼ in Delaware and Hudson, and of 1¼ in Minneapolis and St. Louis. Some slight reactions followed these improve ments, and after the first hour of business prices, as a rule, were little changed from last night.

The speculation showed increased dulless toward noon, and the temper of the trader was somewhat indifferent. Government bonds unchanged. Railroad bonds, firm.
The market opened generally stronger and with pressure on the advance limited to only a few issues. Smelting sold up 1 per cent. Brooklyn Rapid Transit was inactive, but up %. Manhattan rose %. A wide market was noted in Missouri Pacific at a gain of Copper rose %.

pressure was mostly upon Union and Southern Pacific, both of which lost 4. Steel preferred was higher. Smelting common held active. Virginia-Carolina was strong. Reading, Atchison, and Erie were notably firm.

OSTERMAN'S VISIT

Episode of Taking Away Revolver and Baton Has Been Grossly

Policeman C. F. Osterman, who was twice before the trial board and by it found guilty of being a "Peeping.Tom," and recommended for removal, made sensational cell Sunday at Police Head quarters, which has given rise to the rumor in certain quarters that he intimidated the Major and Superistender of Police, drew a pistol on him, and otherwise made himself obnoxious and dangerous. This rumor is not borne out by the facts, which are, briefly, as

On Sunday morning Osterman called ipon Major Sylvester at headquar ters and was very much exercised over what he claimed was an injustice done him by the publication that he had been recommended for removal. The man had lost his night's rest and wor ried so over the matter that his suspension was ordered, when he declared that he might as well not live as to have He had grieved over the matter so that tions. Yesterday he called and apolo that he did not realize what he had

Major Sylvester says Osterman has always shown himself a good policeman and his superiors have sympathized with him in the present case.

Captains Boardman and Gessford were present at the time and he was finally made to realize that he should make no such mistake as he might through grieving over the matter, which is still

Once downstairs, however, there was an interesting time for awhile. nan was taken into the bureau room and ordered to wash up, as his appearance indicated that he had not done so that day. He was then in full uniform, and was on duty, for, contrary to published statements, he has not bee removed from the force, his case being still pending before Commissioner West with a strong probability for a re with a strong probability for a reversal of the decision of the trial board. It was here that Osterman became wild, and, smarting under a sense of his wrongs, he is said to have cursed his superior officers in unmeasured terms. It was a realization of his mental condition which prevented active measures being taken against him, but when, a few minutes later, in the office of Captain Boardman, he momentarily laid aside his baton and revolver, while he adjusted his suspenders, the weapons were seized by Wade H. Rabbitt, secretary to Captain Boardman, and by him secreted.

While Osterman was at headquarters Major Sylvester took his curriage and left, but as he had already stayed longer than he bad intended, and had officially disposed of Osterman, he does not see where the charge of intimidation can be advanced.
